

WHAT IS A WORK SCHEDULE?

A Work Schedule is an agreed amount of time spent to complete certain tasks.

Clients can either:

- Sign up for a Plan A or Plan B Work Schedule (set hours), OR
- Choose to pay per hour, for work included within the Work Schedule (hours may vary)

GOALS OF A WORK SCHEDULE

- To keep up a good level of communication between client and web person: this involves both parties committing to a pre-planned time or task set of goals focusing on your business, particularly as it relates to your website
- To allow you time to ask questions specifically about how to improve your website (PS if you ask me the same questions as last month, and you haven't done the homework I gave you.. don't ask me again)
- To pre-book my time for regular attention to visual presentation, coding, optimisation and navigation issues which can greatly improve your popularity and searchability online when done regularly
- To promote education through action, forming good habits, being an involved and responsible website owner
- A Work Schedule does not include graphic design, PayPal integration, shopping carts, work in photoshop, manual creation (PDFs) etc.
- A Work Schedule is purely to keep your website as Google friendly and error free as possible, and to note any growing differences between the online presentation of you and your work

Work Schedule Inclusions

For the purpose of clarity Work Schedules will have set inclusions (see below). However these can be adjusted to further suit each client individually, and the final agreed upon 'schedule' will be documented for approval by both web person and client by email.

GENERAL WEBSITE CHECK

- an overall check to make sure your web pages are visually neat and tidy on laptops and iPhones, and any changes needed to adjust and correct layout
- checking links are not broken, both those leading to other pages in your website, and any leading to external websites/pages
- as always :) any spelling, grammar issue which has eluded previous editing
- content which no longer applies, or contradicts new content in some way which has not been noticed, will be brought to your attention for adjusting
- these tasks are not the responsibility of web persons generally, the website is yours as is the business it represents, however a Work Schedule gives me the task should you prefer it
- testing your email form and email links on the website to ensure they are working
- based on your individual needs, optimisation to improve your website's searchability, and the level of enquiries/attention the website is receiving

MY WORK

- editing your page titles, page description and key words based on your current content, which should also include adding new or adjusted content on the relevant pages where needed purely to increase your optimisation
- updating your site map if you have had new pages added within the last month, although usually I do this at the time I add new pages as it should be done immediately

YOUR WORK

- will likely include adjusting current content (with my help) and adding new content and new pages purely to increase your optimisation (not for the purpose of adding new upcoming events/classes etc)
- a questionnaire will be sent to those who wish to have optimisation work done to help focus the time spent to achieve the goals of the Work Schedule

BACKUPS

- checking website is backed up and you have a copy available to you via Dropbox and you can access it using the link you have been email previously

FEEDBACK

- you will receive an email after work is done, letting you know anything I think you need to look at and which may need to be added to the next Work Schedule you have booked in

PLEASE NOTE

Websites are not magic. Just because you have one, does not mean your business will suddenly increase and stay that way. You have to remember firstly, not everyone uses the internet, or uses it well. So you may have to think outside the internet, and advertise/network as you would if you did not have a website.

And not everyone thinks like you.

Searches you might use to find your business or services, may be completely different to how others search for what you are offering.

Websites must be updated regularly to keep the Google robots, and others (Yahoo, Bing) coming back and re-indexing each page. Where your website shows in search results depends on many factors. I have articles on these topics here which you can read if you are keen to improve your website rankings.

This is a big portion of the Work Schedule purpose. However it usually means writing more content... as content is still the primary tool Google uses to rank a web page.

The popular 'idea' is to work ON your business as much as you work IN your business. If you ultimately want 20 hours per week regular work, you must put the effort in to get those results.. and just sitting and looking at your pretty website... ain't gonna get you there.

Work Schedule Rules

Work Schedule hours cannot be accrued, rain-checked etc. or used for any other purpose. Work Schedules can be cancelled at any time by either party, and adjusted according to website needs.

Work Schedule Invoicing

Work Schedules will be invoiced for the rest of the year as a statement. You are required to make sure payment is made at the beginning of the month work is to be done. Work will not commence until client pays and reminders will not be sent. This way I do not have to chase payment for work already completed and you are reminded that work is about to be done.

If you commit to a Work Schedule, please pay on time so the work can be done on time. As I will be pre-allocating time based on your individually agreed-to Work Schedules, it is important to keep to your set months so we can both be clear about timing, expectations and results.

Work Schedule Options

- Level A: Time allocated each month for the next 6 or 12 month period
- Level B: Time allocated every three months for the next 12 month period
- Time: One and two hour options available

Work Schedule Investment

- $40 an hour for Plan A or B
- Can be tailored to suit, depending on size of website/amount of work required
